KITCHENS

Bells, whistles, looks and function: These are what we demand of the hard-working heart of our homes. Whether new rooms that look old, or old rooms that look new, kitchens that cook are gathering spots offering ample storage, plenty of pizzazz, and places for family, friends and guests to be part of the culinary experience.

This kitchen has a retractable skylight and is zoned for cooking and dining. Interior design by Wendy Black Rodgers.

Anchored by a furniture-style island, this kitchen is functional and stylish. Interior design by Terry Helland Interiors and Lawrence Lake Interiors.

OUTDOOR LIVING SPACES

When it comes to the outdoors, what once was in, now is out. From furnishings and fabric, to flooring and flora, elements that define interiors are headed outside, where they are making seamless transitions.

Colorful fabrics punctuate this Moroccan-inspired courtyard situated off an indoor wine lounge. Landscape architecture by Exteriors by Chad Robert Inc.

Rich in amenities, this pool-side ramada houses a bar, barbecue, TV and dining area. Pool design by Aloha Pools Inc.; architecture by David Dick; construction by Tim Mann.
